HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE HEBREW PEOPLE

one on a more magnificent scale. The present Temple was erected five hundred years when the Jews returned from Babylon. A thousand priests having architectural skill made overseers of the work on the new Temple. After laboring ten years on the ing and the courts, and before the work was completed, the Temple was dedicated. Fearful that his throne was still in danger Herod murdered his two sons. In this state ind he was smitten with a new fear when the startling announcement was made that King of the Jews, was born, and we know from the opening of the New Testament he attempted to put Him to death.

Thus we have sketched the events of the past four hundred years from the time of miah and Malachi. In that time the covenant people have witnessed the fall of the id world-empire, the rise and fall of the third, and are now under the dominion of the h.

The Messianic line that has been unfolded for centuries through all the changing s and vicissitudes of the Messianic nation has at last issued in the advent of the Son od. The Israelites are reestablished in their land under their religious institutions. prophecy of Daniel as to time, and that of Micah as to birthplace, are fulfilled when s, in the fulness of time, is born in Bethlehem of Judea.

Apocryphal Books

The fourteen Apocryphal books belong to this period of four hundred years, the dates gn running from 180 B. C. to 30 B. C., or the last half of the period from Nehemiah hrist.

Bel and the Dragon have been assigned to the time of the Ptolemies; Ecclesiasticus to ut 180 B. C.; Esther to about 165 B. C.; II Maccabees some time after 161 B. C.; The dom of Solomon to the close of the first century, B. C.; I Maccabees is placed after 135 C. There is no certainty as to the date of Tobit and Judith, The Prayer of Manasses and uch.

The book that has the greatest historical value is I Maccabees which gives the perse- on of the Jews by Antiochus Epiphanes from 175 B. C., and carries the history of that od to the death of Simon Maccabaeus in 135 B. C.

In 1546 A. D., these books were added to the Old Testament Canon by the Council of nt. They are rejected by the Protestant Church as spurious, having no canonical au- rity. The reason for this rejection lies in the fact that they are not in the Hebrew col- ion of the Old Testament Scriptures, and are not in that collection because they were ed as having no divine authority. This is abundantly supported by the fact that they er had the recognition of Christ, His apostles and other New Testament writers.

We know, on the authority of Josephus, that nothing was added to the Old Testament on after the time of Ezra and Nehemiah, and that no other Scriptures were considered art of their sacred canon. And we also know from his enumeration that the books com- ing their Scriptures are the same as our Old Testament books.

The question arises, how did these uncanonical books find their way into the Bible. ey were never given a place in the Hebrew Bible, but from time to time crept into the tuagint, the Greek translation of the Old Testament. This version was used almost ex- usively in Alexandria as the Word of God by Greek-speaking Jews.

Early translations of the Scriptures into the vernacular of the people, such as the Old in, were made from the Septuagint, and consequently from that version these books rked their way into these translations.

The best of the early Fathers regarded the Hebrew Canon as the only authoritative ictures of the Old Testament. This was especially true of the declarations of Augustine finus, Origen. The Protestant Bible takes the true scriptural position relative to the brew Canon as containing the only Scriptures of the Old Testament, and in rejecting se Apocryphal Books.
